Kahlúa goes undercover for St. Patrick's Day with sneakily disguised pint glasses for Espresso Martini lovers

Cocktail lovers can rejoice this St. Patrick's Day with the release of Kahlúa's 'Schneaky' Espresso Martini glass. Disguised to look like a pint of stout, the specially designed, hand-blown glass sneakily conceals an Espresso Martini inside a pint glass. The crafty solution was created following research¹ revealing that cocktail lovers feel "St. Patrick's Day pressure" to drink stout – even if they don't savour its flavour.

- The world's leading coffee liqueur² has created the 'Schneaky' Espresso Martini glass – cleverly disguising the dark rich cocktail with its frothy top as a pint of stout
- To celebrate St. Patrick's Day, Kahlúa is giving away free Espresso Martinis in the sneaky glasses at select UK and Irish pubs to punters who have the secret code word*
- Two in three cocktail drinkers feel “St Patrick's Day” pressure to conform on the 17th March

According to the study, around two in three drinkers (64%) have felt the need to order a 'certain stout drink' to fit in and nearly half (42%) fear they might be judged poorly for choosing a cocktail over a pint on St. Patrick's Day. Enter the 'Schneaky' Espresso Martini glass by Kahlúa – a saviour for many cocktail lovers on 16th and 17th March.

Kahlúa has enlisted former England rugby star and devout stout drinker James Haskell to raise awareness of the Schneaky Espresso Martini glass – showing that even the most loyal fans of stout can sip undercover. Commenting on the glass, Haskell said: “For any punters looking to avoid an unwanted pint of stout, Kahlúa has got you covered. The Schneaky Espresso Martini glass means you can enjoy the deliciously indulgent cocktail you crave, without the fear of being judged.”

Following the huge success of last year's St. Patrick's Day campaign – Feliz St. Patrick's Day – Irish TikTok sensations Tadgh & Derry are joining forces with Kahlúa again. They join 3bucksleft in a cheeky video revealing the Sneaky Espresso Martini glass in all its glory. Watch the video HERE.

On 16th and 17th March, Kahlúa is giving away FREE Schneaky Espresso Martinis* in its bespoke glasses exclusively at two pubs – the Howl At The Moon pub in Hoxton, London and O'Loclainn's in County Clare, Ireland. Punters can try the undercover glass for free by ordering a “Schneaky Espresso Martini” at the bar. There will also be an exclusive opportunity to win a Kahlúa's Schneaky Espresso Martini glass via the Howl At The Moon's Instagram page.

Craig van Niekerk, VP of Marketing for Kahlúa, said: “No one should feel pressured to drink stout this St. Patrick's Day, so why not sneakily whisper slainté with our Schneaky Espresso Martini glass? At Kahlúa, we're always looking to stir up traditions with a touch of playfulness to ensure everyone gets to celebrate the shamrock festivities with a drink they enjoy – even if it's on the sly.”

Connor Clark, General Manager of Howl at the Moonsaid: “There's nothing more Irish than a bit of mischief and this might be the sneakiest pint of stout in town. We can't wait for punters to come by on St. Patrick's Day and give it a go for free.”

Mags, sixth generation publican of O'Loclainn's said: “Nothing says St. Patrick's day like a bit of craic and the best dark rich sips in town. Come for a session and try some on the house!”

About Kahlúa

Originating from Mexico in 1936 and made with 100 per cent Arabica coffee beans, Kahlúa remains the world’s leading coffee liqueur¹. Its global popularity was inspired by the famous Kahlúa Ladies, the game-changing women-only management team that began to spread the word of this rich-tasting drink to the US and beyond in the 1960s. Every bean of coffee used to make Kahlúa is grown in shade plantations of eight remote farming communities in the Mexican coastal region of Veracruz. It’s a relationship the brand has nurtured and continues to do so. We work closely with farmers to help them adopt more sustainable farming methods and improve their living conditions. Today, the 300 tons of premium-grade green coffee used every year for Kahlúa is sourced following our partner Fondo Para la Paz’s three-pronged approach to sustainable development
